Production Process

1. PEELING

The logs selected by Decowood are peeled and processed into thin sheets of required dimensions.

2. DYEING

They are then immersed in soluble organic dyes, which are free of chromium and other heavy metals.

3. COMPOSITION

Depending on the required design, the dyed sheets are mixed and overlapped (with the fibres in the same direction) for pressing.

4. BONDING

They are then sent to a bonding machine, which creates beautiful patterns depending on the colour of the glues used in the machine.

5. PRESSING

Bonded sheets are sent for pressing. The templates define flame finish and/or briar patterns. After pressing, a compact cube is obtained.

6. SQUARING & SHEARING

The log is suitably squared off and honed for shearing to produce thin slices of veneers.

7. SHEETING

The thin slices of veneers are further processed and pasted on ply to create the sheets of veneers.

8. QUALITY CONTROL

Each sheet is subjected to thorough quality control and, if necessary, repaired by skilled hands to give you the best product.
